| Summary (25%)      | The summary is incomplete.                                                                                                                                                         | The review summarizes the most relevant aspect of the paper including the research question(s) and the key result(s).                                            | The review summarizes all relevant aspects of the paper including the research question(s) and the key result(s).                                                                                                              | The review summarizes all relevant aspects of the paper including the research question(s) and the key result(s). The summary reflects a deep understanding of the paper's content and the content's relative importance.                                                                                                                                                       |
| Contribution (20%) | The review does not identify the paper's contribution(s).                                                                                                                          | The review identifies the paper's most important contribution(s).                                                                                                | The review identifies the paper's contribution(s). The review of the contribution (relevance, novelty, value) is meaningful.                                                                                                   | The review identifies the paper's contribution(s). The in-depth review of the contribution (relevance, novelty, value) reflects an excellent understanding of the research, its application and its value.                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Discussion (20%)   | The review does not identify the paper's strengths and weaknesses.                                                                                                                 | The review identifies the key strengths and weaknesses of the research and the paper.                                                                            | The review identifies the key strengths and weaknesses of the research and the paper. The discussion shows a good understanding of the implications.                                                                           | The review identifies the key strengths and weaknesses of the research and the paper. The discussion shows a good understanding of the relative importance of each strength and weakness and implications for the paper's contribution.                                                                                                                                         |
| Lessons (15%)      | The review does not identify lessons that can be derived from the paper.                                                                                                           | The review identifies the most important lessons that can be derived from the paper.                                                                             | The review identifies the most important lessons that can be derived from the paper and connects the lessons to the course content.                                                                                            | The review identifies the most important lessons that can be derived from the paper and connects the lessons to the course content. The review clearly identifies and discusses implications for research and practice.                                                                                                                                                         |
| Follow-up (20%)    | The review does not provide ideas for meaningful extensions of the research presented in the paper. The characteristics of the MAB are not identified or are very confusing/vague. | The review suggests a reasonable topic for further research. The requested MAB characteristics are specified even if with eventual inconsistencies or vagueness. | The review suggests a reasonable topic for further research and discusses the value of the proposed extensions. The requested MAB is specified in a realistic way, demonstrating a reasonable understanding of the MAB theory. | The review suggests one or more topic(s) for further research that have significant potential to increase the value of this stream of research. The review discusses the value of the proposed extensions and their relative contribution. The MAB specs are complete and impressive. There is enough detail for the MAB algorithm to be coded and tested on a similar dataset. |
